ARTHUR CLIFTON;

OR, LEAD US NOT INTO TEMPTATION.

Few weeks ago I visited the village where I born, and lived for twenty years. How
I everything was! Even the faces I met

HISTORY OF THE STARVED CHILDREN

Found in New York by the Home Children's Missionary, and taken to the Home for the Friendless.

Tune—"The Watcher."

One day the wind was blowing,
A chilling wintry blast;
All night it had been snowing,
And still the flakes fell fast.
Upon the pavement lying,
In sight of Broadway's gold,
A mother was found dying,
Of hunger and of cold.

They placed the senseless stranger
Upon the Alms-house cart;
No word, no moan escaped her,
Nor one convulsive start.
"Oh, take the baby, mother!"
Plead childhood's voice of woe:
Oh! please sir, with our mother,
Do let the baby go!

"Of friends we've had no other
Since father has been dead;
Let baby go with mother,
Where he can get some bread."
Oh, it was very fearful,
The famine in their gaze,
And every eye grew tearful,
That looked on each young face.

"Come to the fire and warm you,"
The missionary said,
"There's no one here will harm you,
And you shall have some bread;
And there's a dinner cooking
For baby at the Home;
The ladies will be looking—
All four of you may come."

Oh! could this be his meaning?
Should they be warmed and fed?
They followed, as if dreaming,
And to the Home were led.
Their eyes have lost their wildness,
The frown has left each brow;
They smile and speak with mildness—
They all are happy now.

PROVERBS.

Who right will do alway and with zest,
Let him harbor true love in thought and breast.

Thy chestnuts, if too long they burn,
All into coals are sure to turn,

To sweetly remember and finely to think,
Is tasting of life at its deep inmost brink.

The tender poem, like the rainbow's arc,
Can bloom alone on ground that's dark.

Thence poet's love, though not sad wholly,
The element of melancholy.

How pat would all things be and nice
If we could only do them twice.

Much already thou hast done,
When habit of patience thou hast won.

Let me do, it is my best,
Aye, some end pursuing,
The rich heart it cannot rest,
Alway I will be doing.

Domestic Hints.

Curing Hams.—Recipe No. 2.—A correspondent—Mr. Wm. H. Bennett, of Warwick, R. I.—sends us the following description of a method practised by him for several years in curing hams:

He first takes the cask in which the hams are to be salted, and smokes it for half an hour over a slow fire made with walnut chips. He then makes a pickle for two hundred pounds of ham, by dissolving fourteen pounds of Turks Island salt, half a pound of saltpetre, and two quarts of molasses in sufficient water to cover the meat when placed in the barrel. This pickle is skimmed while the salt is being dissolved at scalding heat. When cooled down this brine is poured upon the hams in the barrel, and they are allowed to lay in it until they are salted. They are then lifted out, hung up to dry, and are afterwards rubbed over with a composition of fine salt, black and red pepper, and some ground cloves. When this operation is performed, they are sewed in bags, and shanks downwards. A dry, cool, attic-chamber is the best place to keep them.—Hams thus preserved have a very excellent flavor, and do not require to go through the smoking process.

The simple smoking of the cask will have the effect of communicating a mild, smoky savor to the meat. Of this we are confident, because we have seen it done, and can endorse Mr. Bennett's experience in regard to this feature of the process. We believe his practice is a good one.

Meringues.—Whisk the whites of eight eggs to a solid froth; then add the rind of six lemons grated fine, and a spoonful of sifted sugar; after which lay a sheet of wet paper on a tin and with a spoon drop the mixture into little lumps upon it, sift sugar over and put them to bake in a moderate oven, taking care to have them done of a nice color; then put raspberry peach between two of these bottoms and lay them in a warm place to dry.

Cheap Sponge Cake.—Two eggs, one cup of flour, one cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of sweet milk, half a spoonful of soda, one tea spoonful of cream of tarter, and a little salt; grate in some rind of lemon and add part of the juice and a tea-spoonful of butter. Bake fifteen minutes.

Arrow Root Pudding.—Very Nice.—Three table spoonfuls of arrow root, mix in a little cold water, free it from lumps, put into a quart of boiling milk, stirring it constantly, when cool, beat it into two eggs. To be served with sweet sauce. Bake it for half an hour.

Black Tops.—Simple Recipe.—Halve and core some large apples, lay them in a shallow pan, and sift white sugar over them. Bake them until tender, make a sauce of one glass of wine to one glass of water, boiled, sweeten to taste.

JULIA MAY.

BY FALCON BIRD.

Boyhood days—how the thoughts of them come stealing over us as the cares of growing years come faster and with crushing weight. Childhood, how old memory fosters the scenes, the careless glee, the smiles of innocence, not yet turned to frowns by contact with a hard, unfeeling world. How well we remember our early days ere one cloud of sorrow had touched our brow, or taught our hearts to believe that there was a thing called doubt—a demon called distrust.

How our thoughts, though sacred and old, will cling to some scene of our youth. Mine cling to one—one that has been ever near me, though more than one silver thread is mingled with my once dark locks, and time has left his furrow on my features,—but my heart is young—yes young.

I have seen sorrow, deep sorrow. The willow droops and throws its gentle shade over the graves of those who taught my infant lips to lisp their sweet names. Father, mother, sister, all sleep beneath the plain white stones over which I weep, and calmly wait the time when I too shall be laid to rest beside them, and sleep the same quiet sleep while my spirit seeks theirs in the bright world beyond the stars.

As my eye wonders from the spot to another pale marble near me the tears flow faster and through the mist I read the simple name 'Julia,' and with bowed head and clasped hands, I wander far, far away into by-gone years, forgetting nought.

I remember her at school, in the little low school house, shaded by a monstrous elm, whose branches almost hid it from the passer-by. What if the benches were rough, and what if in winter the cold wind whistled through the broken windows, it was our school, and humble as it was, we felt a pride in gazing upon it. I was one of the 'advanced' boys and sat upon the first form so far away from the good old master, that even with the help of his heavy iron rimmed spectacles, he failed to detect my mischief.

Without much effort I could reach the form where sat the blue-eyed, laughing elf, Julia May, and many a rosy apple found its way into her desk, and she knew from whence they came. I could not define my feelings then. I could not tell, as in the bit of broken looking glass, I caught sight of my flushed face whenever she looked towards me, why it was, but years after I knew.

Examination day, that day of days to the school boy, when dressed so nicely, he mounts the mimic stage and struts his brief hour upon it, speaking words that uttered by older tongues have fired nations, I looked for no applause at such times, excepting that shown in the smiles of Julia May.

Her home was near mine, and hand in hand we sauntered through the green fields or shaded woods, as homeward we went. Sometimes we stopped beside the old mill and gazed half frightened down into the deep, dark water as it ran swiftly beneath the groaning, tumbling wheel, then turning to soft white foam, bubbling on the surface as it floated slowly away. How many many ships we launched only to be dashed to pieces in the current, never dreaming that in the swift current of the world's river our hopes would be wrecked. No, we had no dark dreams then.

Once as we gazed into the waters Julia fell and sunk beneath them.

With a cry that startled a hundred echoes I leaped after her, and as down I went, deeper and deeper, strange ringing sounds I heard. I felt very happy, lovely scenes passed before my vision; and when I next awoke I was in my own bed, my mother bending over me, and from her I learned how near death I had been, and as I shut my eyes on the horrible vision I felt a sweet kiss, and though I could not see, I knew it was from Julia May. We had both been rescued by the old miller, who had heard my cry as I leapt to rescue my playmate from a danger into which I only plunged myself without aiding her.

We grew older, and I was to be sent away to another school, to college, for I must be a student many years before I could battle with the world. How we cried, as fast in my arms I held her, not daring to say good bye. It was our first grief.

The next day as the old stage coach rumbled away I was in it. There were several others, and pride helped me to force back the tears: but when we rode past the little school house, and heard the ringing laugh of the children at play, and I fancied that behind the half closed blind I saw her, grief mastered me, and the tears fell like rain, for I no longer clung to the pride that reigned in my aching heart.

For two years I remained at college, only once visiting home and then I did not see Julia, for she was on a visit to some friends and before she returned I had left to resume my studies. Two years more I had graduated, my time within the gloomy walls had expired so I returned to my old home to rest awhile before "seeking the bubble reputation" out in the world.—These few weeks were the happiest of my life.

Julia May had grown to womanhood and though the same kind smile beamed in her eyes and the same light curls floated around her brow, I could not treat her as when we were schoolmates. Sometimes it was Miss May, sometimes Julia, but we never allowed those petty quarrels, by some considered essential to the future welfare of lovers.

Three months flew quickly away and I had decided to visit Europe to acquire a knowledge that might be useful in my chosen profession, and as I imparted the fact to Julia, I saw the color leave her face and a paleness creep over her features. For the first time I knew how deeply she loved me. We walked together down the well known path to the old mill. The wheel was silent for it was evening and as in childhood we gazed upon the stream and saw the stars twinkling in its clear mirror like surface our thoughts went far back even to the time when in its death grasp it held her, who was now so dear to me.—Our eyes turned from this and met each others' gaze. My arm was around her waist, her head pillowed upon my heart, while in low tones I breathed my love, she trembled like a captive bird as word after word fell from my lips. I carried her back to the time when we were children at school and played 'neath its old shadow. I told her how through my dreary college life I had loved her and toiled for her and that now on the eve of my departure to a distant land asked one, one word from her to cheer me when the stranger should be my companion and the wide ocean divided us. I told her all and to my question "Julia, will you be my wife when it shall please God to bring me safely back?" the low spoken "yes" told me all. Julia was mine forever, and with a lighter heart I could leave my native land. My lips met hers in one lingering kiss and as I turned my gaze upwards in thanks, a bright star seemed to smile for an instant then winged its flight away and was lost. Was it an omen of good or evil?

Arm in arm we visited the old familiar scenes to bid them farewell. The little school house looked dreary as the moonbeams played with its broken windows, sending streams of golden light into every corner. I peeped in and in place of the well remembered forms on which we sat and saw the more modern desks usurping the places of the well worn benches.

Turning with a sad heart from all this, we returned home.

Before day-break the next morning, the cars rattled away from B——, and bore me with them. I would have preferred the old stage coach with its dragging, tedious pace for the iron horse seemed delighted to tear me away from all that was near and dear. As I caught the last glimpse of home I breathed a heart-felt prayer that peace might ever rest upon it, and life's cup be filled with happiness to those left behind.

Two years I spent in foreign lands, seeing the wonders of the old world, gazing upon the splendors of royality, the homage paid to kings, the fanning, bending knee that ever greeted their approach, and then contrasted such scenes with the freedom of my own country, where every man is "brother" and where a kingly crown has never dazzled the sight of a Republican eye.

I roamed through many lands, viewing the beautiful and picturesque and when suited with this turned homeward. As the noble steamer dashed the white sprays proudly from her path, the storm king hurled his furies around us; but as the ship sped onward like a bird, the fiend withdrew his tempests and nearer and nearer we drew to the haven so desired.

On the morning of the sixth day the sun was obscured by a thick mist which settled like a pall around us, yet while none dreamed of danger, it is near. We felt a shock that started us to our feet; the ship had run upon a half sunken rock, and was sinking rapidly. A few of us being on deck, launched the boats and as the terror stricken passengers crowded into them we were forced to leave many that others might be rescued. At a distance we watched the ship as she slowly sank, while the shrieks of those left behind were truly heart-rending.

At last with a sound like a rushing wind, the steamer went down leaving the surface of the water covered with floating pieces of the wreck, and leaving us alone in an open boat on the bosom of the broad ocean.

For eight days we were tossed here and there before we were rescued by a vessel bound to Boston, and when once again on land without stopping for rest hurried onward to meet those I so long had wished to see.

Twilight was deepening into evening shades as up the avenue I walked towards my old home. Even the old trees seemed to welcome my return, and sighed their gladness by the help of a low west wind. I half smiled as I saw two names cut on one old trunk for I remembered who cut them.

A cheerful light came from the windows of the old "keeping room," every New England heart will recognize that name, and I looked through the half closed blinds. There they sat father, mother, sister, and before the old man was an opened book, and his moving lips told me that he was reading aloud.

As I turned to enter the house, a cold icy substance touched my hand and my dog 'Mayo,' with a quick bark of recognition, sprang upon me—my sister alarmed, threw wide open the door and was clasped in my arms.

The welcome home was hearty, and question after question given and answered before I could relate my escape, and at the conclusion of my story my father bowed his head in prayer, then with my mother retired, leaving my sister with me.

Once or twice I had fancied that the faces around bore traces of sadness, which even my return had not entirely banished, and I eagerly looked for some explanation.

The piano was open, and the music 'My darling's on the sea," attracted my attention.

"I see that you remember me, even in your songs,' said I.

"Yes, that was Julia's favorite,' answered my sister.

"Was Julia's favorite,' and is it not now?'

Her only reply was a burst of tears as she threw herself into my arms. No word was spoken, none needed. I knew by instinct, for a dark cloud was over me and an icy hand seemed to touch my heart.—Julia was dead! Years of anticipated happiness gone forever. My brain was on fire. I could not speak. Gently I put my sister from me, and she left me alone, and all that long night I sat and thought of her. I felt the world a blank, and wished not to live.

Morning found me more composed, but it was the calmness of despair. I would not listen to reason, and after hearing the story of her death, and that her last breath whispered my name, I wandered forth into the warm sunshine and sought her grave. The birds sang sweetly, and in my agony I fancied they mocked my grief, as I leaned upon the marble, that told who slumbered beneath its shade.

For hours I gave way to grief, and then beside her grave breathed a prayer that I might meet her again, though not here.

Each springtime, when the little flowers, greet the warm sun, and the grass puts on its mantle of green, I stand beside that grave and my heart breathes free, as I think how soon, they will lay me beside her. I am almost tired waiting, for I am alone, an old man, and I long to find rest, for I feel

"There is a calm for those who weep;
A rest for weary pilgrims found;
They calmly lie, and sweetly sleep,
Low in the ground."

Farm and Garden.

Burning Sods for their Ashes.—At a meeting of the Skaneateles Farmer's Club, Mr. W. P. Giles gave the result of an experiment on his farm, some years ago, in burning the turf upon a piece of swampy ground which had been reclaimed by draining. The sod was cut loose in the fall, and in the spring was thrown into heaps and burned by the aid of old rails and stumps, and the ashes were then spread as a top dressing upon the land immediately after ploughing; the result was an enormous crop of corn, while the adjacent parts of the same field were ruined by the worms.—The ground continued to produce larger crops of grain and grass than any other part of the field to this day. He also alluded to the practice of the Hon. Mr. Dickinson, of Steuben county, of cutting up the sod along the side of the highway, and throwing it in heaps and burning it, as a manure, with beneficial results.

Country Gentleman.

Roots for feeding Horses.—Horses in livery stables, and all animals kept upon dry food the entire year, need a liberal feeding of roots to keep their digestive organs in healthful action. It is owing to the fact of their medicinal or aperient qualities, that we see such extravagant statements as are frequently made up after short trials.—that a bushel of carrots are equal to a bushel of oats as food for a horse. The facts are, it is contrary to nature for horses to be kept month after month, year after year upon dry hay and grain without grass or roots. Every horse-owner should remember this, and let a liberal supply of green fodder enter into the bill-of-fare for his horse, that its health may be kept up, nor himself suffer loss from neglecting this precaution. We never yet found a livery stable keeper that had tried them who did not value carrots very highly.

Major Phinney, of Barnstable, has been very successful in the cultivation of pine trees from the seed. Eleven years ago he planted ten acres of worn out and otherwise useless land, the soil of which was productive of little else than lichens, with seed from the pine cone, and the result is that now he has a vigorous young forest of pine the average height of which is twenty feet, with trunks from three to six inches in diameter.

Sabbath Reading.

Extracts from Higher Christian Life.—Knowledge is popularized and knowledge is power. But the best of all knowledge is the knowledge of Jesus, and the greatest of all powers is the power of God.—The question is often asked why does not God raise up some Whitefield or Luther in our day? The answer is, he is raising up a multitude of Whitefields and Luthers. He will have all men to be Kings and Priests. The same great truths which made Luther and Whitefield great, will soon make the whole Church of Christ great upon earth, a church of Whitefields and Luthers;—if not in intellect and eloquence yet in living union with Jesus which was the greatest and noblest endowment of these noble men.

A scene occurred one morning in far-famed Old South, Boston, in the morning meeting in the chapel, too natural to be noticed as at all extraordinary by the attendant at that precious daily re-union.—After the sound of the Doxology had ceased its hallowed vibrations, as the people were greeting each other and learning the chapel tunes of the venerable men always occupying the front seats, with their ear-trumpets upturned to catch every word, arose and greeted each other. One placed his trumpet to his ear and turned up its broad mouth towards his stooping white headed companion. The other, bending down and almost burying his face in the open mouth of the trumpet with a slow bend, waiting utterance, said—well Brothers—we have been long meditating, thinking, trying to find out how this divine life could be best promoted in the soul, and we shall get it yet.—Yes, O yes, yes! we shall, we shall! we shall was the answer.

Yes venerate father! Even so. You will very soon. The master will soon call for you, but God grant that before you go hence, Jesus may reveal himself to you as the best way.

In that same assembly a moment before its breaking up, a fair haired youth arose, and said Dear Brethren, help me to praise God! I have found the way! Jesus is the way! He is mine and I am His! He is complete and I am complete in him!

Here were the venerable fathers feeling after the better way and here was the child in it already happy and satisfied.—And he was not alone. Others have came out in the same fullness of light, and others yet are feeling for it. When this great reality shall become the reality of living experimental apprehension then will the church arise for the conquest, and then shall the battle be fought and the victory won.

The attentive observer cannot fail to see that the church is in the transition or new phase of its life and power. The Philip's and Stephen's are multiplying—prayer comes from the lips of those on all grades of the church from the youngest to the oldest, and in the tones and wonders of glowing and fire touched lips. The youth no longer says I am untutored, I cannot speak. The business man has ceased to plead, I am busy, I cannot spare time.—All come up, and all come up to the help of the Lord.

And O, the power the church will have then, we can form no conception! Isolated cases of the power of abiding union with Jesus and its blessed abundant fruits, do certainly give some idea of individual power, but then these are isolated cases.

If in the past, this has wrought such glorious things by the few and the isolated, O what will it not work when it shall pass into the experience of all!

The following letter from a little girl was received by the conductors of the Fulton Street Prayer Meeting in New York.

I am a little girl and scarcely know how to write perfect strangers on so important a subject. But oh, I want to be a Christian so much; and I have been asking God for a long time to make me one, but he has not answered my prayers yet. He has promised to give to them that ask him; but I am afraid I have not asked him in the right way, for he is a God of truth, therefore the fault must be with me. I look around me, and here and there I see my little playmates giving their hearts to God and it makes me feel so sad to think of nothing to soften my hard heart. I am afraid I shall never be a Christian. Sometimes I almost give up in despair. But I know I can never be happy either in this world or the next, unless I am a child of God; and I want to learn to love the Savior, for it would be so pleasant to have Him for my friend and to know that He loves me.

I saw a notice in a New York paper the other day, that God's people would pray for any one who sent on their request to you, at the Fulton Street Prayer Meeting; so I thought that I would write and ask their prayers in my behalf. Perhaps God in his great mercy may see fit to answer your prayers and make an angel of "——."

"Be so much the enemy of self as you desire to be the friend of God."

Dean Berkley's Arrival in Newport.

This year, 1729, Dean Berkley arrived at Newport, a notice of which we extract from the New England Weekly Journal, printed in Boston on Monday, February 3d, 1729.'

Viz:

Yesterday arrived here Dean Berkley, of Londery in a pretty large ship. He is a gentleman of middle stature, of an agreeable, pleasant, and erect aspect. He was ushered into the town with a great number of gentlemen to whom he behaved himself after a very complaisant manner. It is said he purposes to tarry here with his family about three months.

Having undertaken the wild scheme of establishing a college in the Bermuda Islands for the conversion of the American savages to Christianity, aided by the promised patronage of the King and many of the influential Clergy of the nation, he, with some others who followed his fortunes, sailed from England for the Island of Bermuda.—

After a tedious passage they found themselves, as they supposed, in the latitude of the islands, but were not able to discover them, and after cruising about for some time in the neighborhood, gave over the pursuit; they then concluded to return to England, and steering a northern course, tradition says they made land, and hove out a signal, uncertain what land it was, but supposing themselves on the coast of America, and some part inhabited by Indians only. A boat came alongside of the ship, in which was two of the Islanders, who informed them that the land in view was Block Island. They then enquired if they were in any of the English colonies of N. England, and being answered in the affirmative they further inquired if there was any harbor and sea port town near, and were answered that a town called Newport lay about thirty miles distant, where was an episcopal church, the Rector of which was the Rev. James Honeman.—They then steered for Newport, accompanied by the two Block Islanders who carried the ship into the west passage, the wind being adverse for entering the harbor of Newport. The ship cast anchor between the Island of Conanicut and Narragansett—the two men from Block Island landed on Conanicut and called upon a Mr. Gardner and Mr. Martin, both of whom were members of Mr. Honeyman's Church and informed them that a great dignitary of the church from England was on board the ship—called Dean! together with other passengers. They also produced a letter from the Dean directed to the Rev. Mr. Honeyman, on the receipt of which Gardner and Martin came to Newport in a small boat to bring the intelligence and also to bring the letter—when on their arrival they found that Mr. Honeyman was at the church, it being the day on which divine service was held there; they then sent the letter by a servant who delivered it to Mr. Honeyman in his pulpit; he opened the letter and read it to the congregation, from the contents of which it appeared that the Dean might be expected to arrive every moment. The church was then dismissed with the blessing, and the Rev. Mr. Honeyman together with the wardens, vestry, church and congregation, male and female, repaired immediately to the Ferry wharf, where they arrived a little before the Ferry Boat which contained the Dean, his family and friends. The Dean was received on his landing by the gentlemen of the church, and others of the town, who had collected thus hastily on the occasion, with the most respectful and hearty welcome; and the people forming themselves in procession escorted the Dean and his suit to the house of Mr. Honeyman.

The Dean continued about two years in Newport and often performed divine service at Trinity Church.

He purchased a farm about three miles from the compact part of the town, and built a house there which he named White Hall, and after his return to England in 1733, he presented the church with a fine organ.'

What is contained in the preceeding quotations was related to the writer, by an elderly, intelligent gentleman, who states that it is according to his recollection of frequent conversations held at his father's house, when he was about fourteen or fifteen years of age, by his father and Messrs Wiskham, Malbone, Pease, Rev. Doctor Eyers, Bissit and Gardner Thurston.

We have given the foregoing tradition as we received it, but other traditions vary a little from that; some of which state that the ship made no land until she arrived in the East river, from which she came round the north end of the Island to Newport.

He purchased an estate soon after his arrival (probably White Hall) as he must have been a freeholder, and admitted a freeman of Newport, preparatory to his admission as a freeman of the colony, which was done at the General Assembly the May following. SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 11, 1858.

THE method of providing for the unfortunate poor at the Newport Asylum, has proved so beneficial to the interests of the city, as well as conducive to the comfort and happiness of a class that deserve our sympathies, that we feel it would not be uninteresting to refresh the memory as to its origin, cost, &c., and more especially as some information may be derived from that source, now that there is a necessity of providing other means than the watch house and the jail for the punishment and reformation of an increasing class in this community, as well as to remove whatever temptation may exist to encroach on the privileges now enjoyed at the Asylum—privileges which all should hold sacred, and which we should feel as ours as well as theirs.

We do not know who of the most prominent citizens in 1819, were the originators of the design, but find that at a Town Meeting held March 15th of that year, the late STEPHEN T. NORTHAM, Esq., and Mr. JAMES STEVENS were appointed a committee to contract for the erection of a building on Coasters Harbor Island for the accommodation of the poor. The committee contracted with the late Mr. BENJAMIN CHASE to build a house, barn and other outbuildings, and to dig and stone a well.

On Friday, June 25th, 1819, the Grand Lodge of Free Masons of the State, attended by the Masonic Fraternity and Town Council, proceeded to the Island and laid the corner stone of the Asylum. After laying the same in due masonic order by the Grand Master, a plate was deposited with the following inscription on one side:—

NEWPORT ASYLUM: Erected A. D. 1819.

On the other side, surmounted with the masonic arms:—

This Corner Stone laid June 25th, in the 43d year of Independence, by the M. W. Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the State of Rhode Island.

After which an appropriate discourse was delivered by the Rev. Mr. BATES, Grand Chaplain.

The establishment was completed in less than one year from the date of contract, at a cost of $6,940,29.

The materials purchased were 35,284 feet of timber and joist, 3,000 feet of window, frame joist, 14,480 feet 2-inch plank, 2000 feet 1-2-inch plank, 42,500 feet pine boards, 50,000 cedar shingles, 9,000 feet chestnut lath boards, 200 casks lime, and 1,752 squares of glass, and there were 800 cords of stone used, which was quarried on the island.

By the report of the Commissioners of the Asylum, appointed March 26th, 1820, we find that on the 11th of July, 1820, all the poor residents of the Alms House were removed to the Asylum, and subsequently many of the out-door pensioners became inmates of the establishment, and that it was gratifying to observe the contrast between the old and the new mode of providing for their wants, as they appeared so much more cleanly, contented and comfortable. In their report of 31st March, 1821, for the three quarters of the year and estimate for the remaining quarter, they state as the total expense for the year $3,543,80, and quote as the expense of the previous year, under the old system, $5,400; so that although there had been about $1500 expended in fitting and furnishing the rooms, &c., in the new building, there was an actual saving of $1,856,20 to the town in money, in addition to the improved accommodations afforded.

From the report of the Committee on Internal Industry, of which the late Hon. GEORGE ENGS was chairman, we find that although a large proportion of the inmates of the Asylum proved to be incapable of accomplishing much labor that could be made available towards providing for their maintainance, there was produced by them from the raw material for the three first quarters of the year, 63 pairs of stockings, 29 pairs new footed, 106 1-2 yards of flannel, 189 yards tow cloth, linen yarn in the various stages of preparation for the loom, sufficient for the manufacture of 100 yards of tow cloth, a considerable parcel of cotton yarn and some woolen yarn from the coarse wool for blankets, linen thread sufficient for the use of the establishment, and about 1,000 lbs. oakum. So much for the first nine months experience of the operations of the Asylum, and it certainly appears from the above statement of facts, that some idea may be gleaned tending to confirm the views of Mayor CRANSTON in his communication to the City Council Nov. 2d, on the subject of a House of Correction. There were admitted from July 11, 1820, to March 29th, 1821, eighty-two persons, and at the last named date there were 59 persons there. Two persons were admitted on the 11th July, 1820, who are still remaining, viz., JOHN JOE and POLLY LOONEY.

The expenses of the Asylum for the year ending March 25th, 1822, were $2,666,48.

The average number of inmates for the year ending March 25th, 1823, were 52. Total nett cost, 2,694,21.

On the 25th March, 1824, there were 57 inmates. Expenses for the year ending on that date, 2,199,12.

For the year ending March 25th, 1855, the average number of inmates were 84.

Total expense for the year,		$6,222,50
Received from sale of produce and other resources,		2,222,50
Nett cost to the city for the year,		$4,000,00

On the 25th March, 1855, the number of inmates was, males 98; females 89.

On the 25th of March, 1856, the number of inmates was, males 30; females 32.

Average number for the year 1855–6, 124.

Total expense of the establishment,		$6,523,01
Received from sale of produce,	$2,396,60
Other resources,	626,41	3023,01
Nett cost to the city,		$3,500,00

For the year ending March 25th, 1857, number of inmates, 74.

Total expenses of the establishment for the year,		$6,179,09
Received from sale of produce,	$1,951,58
Other resources,	727,51	2,679,09
Nett cost for the year,		$3,500,00

Taking the three first and the three last years experience of the working of the Asylum as a basis for calculation, we find the average yearly expense of the establishment to the city to be $3,093,20, and $5,400 as the expense of the last year under the old system, it gives an annual saving of $2,307 per year, to which should be added the great addition to the value of the island, by the improvements upon the farm and by the permanent bridge, which has been constructed under the superintendance of the present very efficient and worthy keeper, Mr. JAMES SIMMONS.

The condition of the unfortunate at the Asylum is a comparatively happy one, and not being there for crime or from choice, neither their happiness nor their feelings and self-respect should be disturbed by their home being made a receptacle for the vicious, and of such a class as those who are generally found in the custody of the watch, and, no doubt, sentiments of this nature, coupled with the fact that the city does not provide some suitable place for the confinement and punishment of vagrants and others, often leads to their liberation, to return to their reckless habits and re-arrest, when they should have been confined and punished in the first instance. If the worn-out poor can do so much toward their support, how much greater reason is there that the robust, but lazy, improvident vagrant should be made to do something towards repaying the expense they cause while under arrest, to say nothing of the improvement of their morals by restraint, and of their habits by labor, which is infinitely of more consequence. The stone for building purposes is on the spot, and could easily be made available not only for use on the island, but as a means of employment for a portion of such as it might be found necessary to offer the alternative to work or to starve, thus relieving the city authorities in some measure, from the danger of exercising a misplaced philanthrophy, as well as tending to remove the temptation to steal for bread, which is so potent as hardly to be resisted; but the matter is in good hands, and the Committee to whom was referred the subject of a House of Correction will, no doubt, consider well the case in all its bearings, and decide with an eye singly to the public good.

A case of parental negligence has recently been brought before the public by the conviction of a son of Mr. CHANCE NORTHUP. He had been in the habit of stealing whenever an opportunity offered, and of getting groceries and other articles under false pretences, but finally he stole money from Mrs. HOBART and was arrested. He was put in jail on Wednesday to await his trial, but before evening he forced his body through the window gratings and dropped to the ground, a distance of about twenty feet. He was again arrested, and on Thursday nearly succeeded in escaping the second time when a pair of handcuffs were put upon him and his quarters changed to the Watch House. Thursday afternoon the Court of Justices held a special session and sentenced the boy to the State Reform School until he is 21 years of age. This is a long term, as the boy is but about 9 years old.

MAJOR T. W. SHERMAN, who is at present stationed at Fort Ridgely, Minnesota, has sent us an extract from the weather register kept at that post, from which it appears that at sunrise on the 14th of last month, the thermometer stood 2° above zero; 15th, 4° below, and 16th, 14° above. To show the great difference of climate which we are enabled to enjoy in this latitude, we have consulted Dr. TAYLOR'S Meteorological Diary, and find the thermometer stood at sunrise on the 14th, 30° above, 15th, 36° above, and 16th 20° above. The difference of climate between our Island and the West is not so much owing to the difference of latitude as to our peculiar situation, for here the heat and cold are both mitigated by the surrounding waters.

THE first lecture for the benefit of the Musical Institute, we are pleased to say, was well attended. The subject which Mr. CALVERT spoke upon was "Beauty," and it is hardly necessary for us to say that it was a superior production, and secured the strictest attention of his hearers until the close.

The members of the Institute sang one of their sweetest Quartettes at the close of the lecture.

HENRY JAMES, Esq., will deliver the next lecture on Monday evening. Subject, "Spiritualism." How he will treat the subject, whether pro or con, we have not learned, but there can be no doubt but it will be ably handled.

WEDNESDAY evening we dropped in at Masonic Hall while Mr. WHITING, a Trance Medium, was speaking. His discourse on the truth of Spiritualism was beautifully and ably presented, and from his manner of speaking, it was evident that something more than his own mind was in action, as no one could concentrate their thoughts with such rapidity. Not having given the subject that attention which is necessary to enlighten our skeptical mind, we will not endeavor to controvert any of the points which were presented, but do as he acknowledged was the privilege of every one—think for ourselves.

PERSONS should look carefully at the bank bills which are in circulation, for almost daily new counterfeits are put in circulation, and although the Police in the different cities occasionally seize quantities of them and arrest the holders, yet like the heads of the Hydra, new culprits rise up and flourish as fast as old ones are discovered and sent to prison. There are large organizations for the manufacture and circulation of the article, and the loss now and then of a few members and a little stock does not diminish the funds of the fraternity.

WE learn with pleasure that the closing exercises at the Berkeley Institute, yesterday, were very interesting, and the manner in which the pupils acquitted themselves, elicited the praise of the many friends who were present.—The school is under the immediate care of Rev. WILLIAM C. LEVERETT, Principal, and it is gratifying to know it is in so flourishing a state.

THE entire manufacturing establishment of the Elm Street Manufacturing Company at Providence, consisting of about 34,000 feet of land on Elm, Basset and Butler streets, with the necessary buildings, steam engine and five sets of machinery for the manufacture of fancy cassimeres, has been sold for $41,000 cash.

WE learn that there will be services in Emmanuel Church Sunday evening, commencing at half-past six o'clock, and that the Ordination services on Wednesday next will commence at 10 o'clock A. M.

The Worcester Spy, which is one of the oldest papers in the country, has passed into the hands of Messrs. FOSS & FARNUM, and appeared on Tuesday in a new dress. The new publishers have our best wishes.

BY referring to our advertising columns it will be seen that the first of a course of lectures before Hercules Co. No. 7 will be by Rev. Dr. JACKSON, on Monday evening next.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

The Harvest and the Reapers: Newcomb; Gould & Lincoln, Boston. We have risen from a careful perusal of this little work with an earnest desire to see it in the hands of every man and woman, whose heart loves the Savior and whose daily petition is "Lord what wilt Thou have me to do." To every such christian of any or every denominational sect we would say, read prayerfully this book and you will learn what can be done for Christ by practical systematic effort in His service.

Especially would we commend such perusal of the 5th, 6th and 7th chapters. God has during the past year abundantly poured out upon our land the influences of His Holy Spirit, and many have been brought into His visible church whose talents and energies are waiting only to be judiciously directed to appropriate spheres of labor.—This little book will show such that the master of the vineyard has a post for each and every one to occupy who loves the Lord Jesus in sincerity and truth. C.

Blackwood's, for November, comes to us from Leonard Scott & Co., enriched with the writings of Bulwer and others, and always looked for with pleasure and read with profit. Its opening paper is a review of Buckle's History of Civilization; a continuation of What will he do with It follows. There is also an able paper on the Life and Character of Edward Irving, a worthy divine, whose extraordinary career is now first placed before the reader in an intelligible shape. Then follows a continuation of the Light of the Hearth, and a paper on the port and fortress of Cherbourg.

The Crayon, for December, closes the fifth volume of this worthy advocate of all that the wide field of Art embraces, and it promises to continue its useful work, which could be rapidly promoted if the many who profess to have a taste for the Fine Arts would give it a helping hand, by extending its circulation. Its aim is a noble one, and its success, considering the obstacles a periodical of this kind must always contend with, has been a triumph.

School Books.—We have received from Mr. E. Wheelock, Jr., 140 Westminister street, Providence, "The First Book of Arithmetic" and "The Common School Arithmetic," both by Dana P. Colburn, the popular Principal of the State Normal School. As these books have but recently been issued, they probably have not been introduced into our schools, but coming from such a source, they will undoubtedly take the place of those of a like character now in use.

The Family Choral, by Rev. A. C. Rose, is a collection of hymns and tunes especially adapted to family and social worship, embracing some of the most popular revival melodies of the day.—Published by Henry V. Degen, 22 Cornhill, Boston. The work is by no means denominational, but appropriate for every Christian family. The opening hymns are, "The day is past and gone," and "While thee I seek, protecting power."

The Happy Home, for December, is out and ready for circulation. Its papers, are, as usual, well filled with matter calculated to do the greatest amount of good and to elevate and improve the home circle; but its illustrations—its full-page engravings—can have no such tendency, they are positively bad, without a redeeming feature and the magazine would be more valuable without them.

Godey's Lady's Book is out in its holiday dress for the New Year, and an appropriate plate, with the title, the seven ages of woman, colored and plain fashion plates, illustrated articles, tales, sketches, gossip, &c., as varied as possible and designed to make it acceptable to the reader.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH DESTROYED BY FIRE. At about half past eleven o'clock last night St. Michael's Church was discovered to be on fire, and so rapid was the progress of the flames, that in one hour the beautiful structure was entirely consumed. It is not known how the fire originated, but it is supposed it must have caught from the furnace in the east end of the building, directly under the organ loft, as the flames, when discovered, were pouring out of the large window in the rear of the organ. I understand that there is an insurance of $9000 on the building, and $1000 on the organ, the former at the Providence Mutual office.

St. Michael's Church is one of the oldest Episcopal parishes in the State. It was formed in the year 1719. The following year, the London Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts sent over the Rev. Mr. Orem, who officiated for the infant and feeble church. In about a year he removed to New York to accept the situation of chaplain to his Majesty's forces. In 1722, the same Society sent out Rev. John Usher, who was most cordially received. In 1731, the parish passed a vote requiring Mr. Usher to support all the widows of the church out of his small salary. Mr. Usher remained until the begining of the Revolution, when, at about the age of eighty years, departed this life. His memory is still cherished by all true churchmen with the most affectionate veneration and respect.

The church edifice, which was partly finished when Mr. Orem arrived in the country, was burnt by a party of British soldiery in May, 1778. The church worshipped in the old court house until 1786, when a new building was erected. Most of the time from the Revolution to the year 1793, the church enjoyed the lay services of the second John Usher, who then received ordination at about the age of seventy years. He died in 1804, aged eighty two years.

In 1803, the late Bishop Griswold became the rector, and continued in that relation until the year 1829. This eminent and most devoted prelate found the church weak and divided, and left it one of the strongest and most efficient parishes in New England. During his ministry, the church built in 1786 was greatly enlarged.—As early as 1825, measures were taken to erect a new church, but owing to pecuniary reverses of one most relied upon to aid the new enterprise, nothing was done until 1833, when, through the active exertions of the late Rev. John Bristed, means were obtained to erect the building just destroyed. It was consecrated by Bishop Griswold on the sixth day of March, 1834. It was one of the most beautiful and commodious gothic churches in the country, 85 feet long and 54 feet wide. It stood upon the site of the two former churches. Under the channel were deposited the ashes of the two venerable Ushers, father and son. It had a large organ and a fine toned bell. The whole cost was $19,000. Last year repairs and alterations were made, costing upwards of $2000.

Some two or three of the splendid shade trees on the front and side of the church, I fear, are destroyed.

Before many months shall elapse, it is altogether probable that a fine granite or brown stone edifice will cover the spot where the ruins of the late building now lie smouldering.

Bristol Cor. Prov. Jour. Dec. 6th.

THE WILL OF THE LATE AUGUSTUS THORNDIKE.—The comments upon the will of the late Augustus Thorndike, in the public journals, have been based upon the statement that a daughter was cut off with a paltry annuity, and the relatives were forbidden to aid her in any way. It now appears that a son has been cut off in a like manner, and a gratuitous insult offered to the family of his wife. The deceased appears to have entertained a complete and terrible mania against some of his children. He has endeavored to carry his prejudices to the third and fourth generations of his family. He has provided that if any of his heirs object to the will, they are to be wholly cut off from any portion of his estate.

Anticipating that his will might possibly be broken by the law of this Christian State, he has left another will with four codicils, to go into operation in that event. For the credit of the legal profession, we will state that the document is in the handwriting of the deceased. Instead of having executors, this Will has "executioners." We hear that some of the gentlemen thus appointed will decline the dishonor.

A CATHOLIC JUBILEE.—Bishop Fitzpatrick of Boston has designated the entire month of December as a Jubilee. This jubilee is held by order of the Pope, for having travelled in safety thro' his own dominions and secured during his progress the gratulations of his subjects. This journey was made in 1857, and the Jubilee is for the faithful throughout the world. The Boston Pilot informs us that the first celebration of the Jubilee in its present form took place in the year 1300, during the pontificate of Pope Boniface VIII. It was then established with the intention of having it celebrated every hundred years at the beginning of the century; but its good effects on the piety of the faithful were so apparent that Pope Clement VI. caused it to be celebrated every fifty years, in imitation of the Jubilee of the old dispensation. In 1470, Pope Paul II. published a Bull establishing the Jubilee for every twenty-five years, and this practice still remains in force.

JOHN TYLER of Providence, was drowned last Monday in the Dyer Pond, in consequence of breaking through the ice, on which he was fishing for pickerel.

THE PARAGUAYAN CONTROVERSY.—The letter published in the London Daily News in relation to our difficulties with Paraguay, to which we referred in some remarks upon that subject in our paper of Friday last, has been the object of very severe criticism. It is asserted that the writer, although formerly an officer in the English navy, is now employed in the service of Lopez, that he was not as he represents, a witness of the difficulty with the Water Witch, nor indeed in Paraguay at all until some time after, and in short, that his communication was based upon a strong personal interest, rendered more active by a desire to gratify a private pique against the former American Consul, Mr. Hopkins. His statement that the Water Witch, at the time of the attack, was forcing her way through a channel entirely within the jurisdiction of Lopez, is denied, and his representations as to the policy adopted by the dictator and the effect likely to be produced in South America generally by our expedition, are pronounced to be false and actuated solely by his prejudice or selfish interest. These views, in contradiction to this letter, have been set forth at length, in a communication in the New York Times, and an editorial article in the New York Evening Express.

Boston Advertiser.

RINGWORM.—This is called a disease, although it does not seem to affect the general health of a person infected with it. Children appear to be its subjects, and it is so infectious that it has been known to run through a whole school. It appears in circular patches of little postules, and destroys the bulbs of the hair when it forms on the head. The proper treatment for it consists in keeping it clean by frequent washings with soap and water. It is more liable to attack weakly than strong children, and although disagreeable in appearance it is not dangerous. An ointment composed of vegetable tar mixed with a little sulphate of zinc ground to powder will soon remove it. Mercurial ointment is sometimes used, but it should seldom, if ever be employed. When ringworms appear on the face, an ointment of honey mixed with a little flour of sulphur is said to be an excellent remedy.

Two hundred shares of Suffolk Bank stock were sold in Boston, Saturday, for 126 1-4—a great decline from former prices. This stock, which used to be rarely found in market, is now offered in considerable amounts, almost daily.—The loss of the foreign money redemption business, it is apprehended, will tell on the dividends of the "great regulator."

ON searching the house of an old gentleman who died in a town near New Bedford, a short time since, a bag was found containing about $1000 in Mexican dollars and half dollars, and 1200 in bills of one of the New Bedford banks, being among its earliest issues, and dating back nearly thirty years.

OIL CONTRACT.—The N. B. Mercury states that the government contract for sixty thousand gallons winter sperm oil has been taken by Daniel Fisher of Edgartown, at $1 21 3-4 per gallon.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE is about nine columns in length, but the following synopsis embraces the chief matters of interest:—

The President opens by congratulating the country on the contrast of the agitation which existed in Kansas a year ago, with the peace and quiet which now exists. He refers to the Lecompton Constitution, and re-affirms his position on the subject. He thinks that if Kansas had been admitted with that constitution, the same quiet would have been secured at an earlier day. Being perfectly willing to acquiesce in any other constitutional mode of settlement he signed Mr. English's bill, and it is probably through that, when Kansas again applies for admission, she will have the population required by that bill. He goes at length into the subject, and recomemends the passage of a general law, so that no State shall be admitted unless she has a population sufficient to entitle her to one representative.

He congratulates Congress on the settlement of the Utah affair without the effusion of blood; compliments the officers of the army there, expresses satisfaction with the course of Gov. Cumming and honorably mentions Col. Kane.

He refers to the importance of the treaties recently negotiated with China and Japan, and thinks that the result in the former case, justified our neutral policy.

He congratulates the country on the abandonment of the right of search by Great Britian, and in reference to Central America says that negotiations are still progressing, and has not yet abandoned all hope of success. He also refers to what he stated during the last session in this connection.

His views on the subject of the Isthmus routes, accord with the policy heretofore announced by Mr. Secretary Cass. His only desire is to keep those routes open. He asks no other privileges for the United States than those which other nations enjoy, but he will not consent that they shall be closed through the imbecility of the nations who reside near these routes. He regrets that the Nicaragua route has been closed, and speaks of the necessity of enforcing our claims against Costa Rica.

He alludes to Mexico as in a condition of civil war with scarcely any hope of restoration to a permanent government. He also refers to the cause which led to the recent rupture of our diplomatic relations with that country, and speaks well of our Minister Forsyth's efforts there. If it were not for the hope of obtaining justice from the liberal party which now appears to be approaching to power in Mexico, the President would recommend the taking possession of a portion of Mexico sufficiently large to indemnify us for all our claims and grievances against her.

The President then refers to that portion of Northern Mexico which borders our own territories, and says there are considerations which claim our attention there. We are interested in the peace of that neighborhood. The lawless Indians enter our settlement in Arizona, and there seems to be no other way in which this difficulty can be removed than by establishing military posts in Sonora and Chihuahua. He recommends that this should be done in view of the fact that Mexico itself is in a state of anarchy and imbecility, and are therefore unable to protect its frontiers.

With regard to Spain, he refers to the causes which have delayed the appointment of a successor to Mr. Dodge, at the court of Madrid, and says that Mr. Preston will go out with full powers to settle our difficulties with that country if it be possible to settle them.

He next adverts to Cuba, and says that Island ought to belong to the United States, and recommends that steps be taken for its purchase, as all our new territory was acquired by honorable negotiation, Cuba should not be an exception.

With regard to the tariff, the President reaffirms his former opinions in favor of specific duties on certain articles, and submits the whole tariff question to the consideration of Congress. He then calls attention to the Pacific Railroad, and refers to the overland mails as showing the practicability of the route.

Among other subjects, he reiterates his recommendation to establish a territorial government in Arizona.

THE various reports of the heads of Departments at Washington were presented to Congress on Monday. They are very lengthy, consequently we can only give a synopsis of each as follows:—

The Secretary of the Navy, after referring in detail to the various services performed by our naval force during the year, proceeds to argue the necessity for its increase by additional vessels and men. He proposes that government should purchase for a specific sum, the several vessels recently chartered for the Paraguay expedition. He also suggests the building of ten heavy armed vessels of a light draft, and the increase of the personnel of the navy, by the appointment of twenty additional surgeons, 15 or 20 additional pursers, and the increase of the Marine corps of privates to 2000, with the usual number of officers. The expenditures for the fiscal year, ending June, 1858, were nearly $14,000,000, being a little under the appropriations. The estimates for the current fiscal year were $14,616,000. The estimate for the year ending June, 1860, are $13,500,000, including the $864,000 for completing the eight light draft steamers, but not including the $936,000 for steamships and mail service.

The report of the Secretary of the Interior indicates a satisfactory state of affairs in his department. The income the ensuing year from the sales of public land is estimated at $5,000,000. In alluding to the various mining regions in the Territories, the Secretary suggests whether it would not be sound policy to pass a general law reserving all auriferous silver and cinnabar mines from sale for the use and occupancy of the United States, under regulations provided by law, and leaving those of the baser metals and coal subject to the ordinary laws of sale for their developement. He also suggests the establishment of a land office in Utah, and the extension of the free preemption laws over that territory so as to embrace all the inhabitants residing in its limits. The Secretary is opposed to the removal of the Indian tribes and advocates the policy of assigning land to individuals among them, without the power of alienation, and of expending the money annuities for the public good instead of dividing it pro capita as now.

The income of the Patent Office for the three quarters ending in September was nearly $151,000, exceeding the expenditures upward of $6500.

The report of the Commissioner of the Land Office, covers a period of five quarters, ending 1858, at which time there were surveyed and ready for market, nearly 2,000,000 acres of land which have never been offered at public sale.—During the five quarters, there had been sold 4,805,000 acres for cash, from which upward of $2,500,000 were realized. The whole amount of land sold, and located under military warrants and swamp grants is 13,184,000 acres.—The Commissioner recommends amendments to the pre-emption laws with a view to uniformity in the system, and the reduction in the number.

The report of the Indian Commissioner, estimates the number of Indians within our limits, at about 350,000. The whole number of tribes and bands is 175, with 44 only of which we have treaty engagements. The quantity of land acquired by these treaties is upwards of 581,000,000 acres, and the cost to the government of fulfilling these treaties has been nearly $50,000,000. The whole amount of trust funds held on Indian account is upwards of $10,590,000. He points out several fatal errors which have hitherto marked our policy toward the Indians, and makes several important suggestions for the future, embracing among them a recommendation that the various tribes should be permanently located on reservations not larger than is necessary for actual occupation, and that they should be required to live upon them and cultivate these reservations. He also recommends the ratification of the treaties made with the Washington and Oregon Territories as a means of preventing further hostilities.

The report of the Secretary of War states the actual strength of the army on the 1st of July was 17,500. The disbursements in the Quartermasters' Department has been nearly $10,000,000. The estimates for the next fiscal year are about $18,000,000, being upward of $9,000,000 less than the appropriations for last year. The Secretar entertains a strong hope that the expenditures of his department may be still further reduced in the course of another year, so that there will be no necessity of asking appropriations in the shape a deficiency bill.

The Postmaster General says the expenses of the Department over and above its revenues, have regularly increased ever since the reduction of postages. This increase however, cannot continue hereafter in the ratio which has marked the last few years. Our postal system is now extended over the whole country, from one ocean to the other, and there can be little further expense resulting from the overland connection with California and the other Pacific States and Territories.

Only one other route, that from Minnesota to Washington Territory, is now thought likely to become necessary. The estimate for the transportation of the mails for the next fiscal year, 1859-60, when completed, over and above the anticipated revenues, may therefore be regarded as the maximum which will be required for some time to come.

The rapid extension of railroads has contributed greatly to swell the expenses of the department, the rate of pay demanded being above that on coach routes of the same length, while in many cases the stages are obliged to be kept running to accommodate towns not reached by the railroads, thus doubling the expense.

The report refers to the great evil of sending annually hundreds of tons of books through the Post Office department and paying for their transportation as mail matter, when in reality they are only so much merchandise, and asks why they cannot be sent by the ordinary means of conveyance, or by the application of postage stamps, as on other mail matter? In one instance the transmission of the books, &c., of a member (from Utah) has cost the department between six and seven thousand dollars.

"The whole number of post offices in the United States on the 30th of June last was 27,977, of which 400 are of the class denominated presidential. The number established during the last fiscal year was 2121, and the number discontinued 730, being an increase of 1391. The number of postmasters appointed during the year was 8284. Of these 4595 were to fill vacancies occasioned by resignation, 998 by removals, 278 by deaths, 292 by change of names and sites, and 2121 on establishment of new offices. The whole number of offices on the 1st of December 1858, was 28,573."

On the 30th of June last there were in operation 8926 mail routes, whose united length is estimated at 260,603 miles, divided as follows: Railroad, 24,431 miles; steamboats, 17,... miles; coach, 53,700; inferior grades, 16... miles. The total transportation of the mails was 78,765,491 miles, costing $7,355,41... Compared with the previous year, there was an increase of 18,002 miles to the mail routes; 859,424 miles to the total transportation; and $1,173,372 to the cost.

The expenditures of the department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1858, were $... 722,470,01. Of this $7,821,556,83 were for transporting inland mails, including incidental expenses; and $124,497,34 for the transportation of foreign mails.

The gross revenue for the year 1858, including receipts from letter carriers and from foreign postages, amounted to $7,486,792,8... The addition of the permanent annual appropriation of $7,000,000 brings the revenue up to $8,186,792,86; leaving a deficiency as compared with expenditures of $4,534,843,70.

But it appears by the Auditor's report that owing to the balance due the department at the beginning of the financial year, and to the various appropriations, there was left to the credit of the department on the 1st of July, 1858, the sum of $608,313,06.

The estimated expenditures for 1859 are put down at $14,776,520. The means for the year are estimated at $11,094,393—leaving a deficiency of $3,682,127.

In regard to the ocean and foreign mail service, it appears that the total postage for the year by the Collins line was $152,829,65, and by the Bremen, Southampton and Havre lines $102,603,00 to the first, and $105,923,26 to the latter.

The total postages on letter mails exchanged with Europe was $1,378,147,32.

The total postages for the year from the New York Aspinwall and California lines, were $3..., 747,47; from the Charleston and Havana line $9,125,42, and from the New Orleans and Vera Cruz line, $4,359,37.

The Postmaster General regrets that our ocean mail steamship service to Europe is not on a permanent basis. No service has been performed by the Collins line since last February. A proposition to resume it, provided the ships could be allowed to make Portland, instead of New York, the American terminus, was rejected by the Navy Department. The delay and uncertainty in respect to this line prevented contracts with the others. He believes that contracts can be made in all cases on the terms required, but he thinks it would be a great advantage to American ships if the length of contracts should be extended from two years to a period not exceeding ten, at the discretion of the Postmaster General.

The Postmaster General's report closes with the recommendation of a new steam mail line from San Francisco to Japan and China. He is confident that the first three years such a line would need no subsidy, as it would be resorted to by all the chief commercial nations.

The second session of the Thirty-fifth Congress was commenced on Monday at Washington with the usual formalities. While the committee appointed to wait upon the President for the purpose of informing him that the Senate was organized and ready for business, Mr. Mason of Virginia commenced the agitation of the slavery question by giving notice that he would call up on Tuesday next the case of the Spanish schooner Amistad. Mr. Fessenden of Maine and others objected to this claim being singled out, and Mr. Seward called for a vote on the question, which was taken—yeas 2..., nays 19. After the reading of the Message the Hon. John P. Hale of New Hampshire, pertinently opposed the motion of Mr. Bigler of California to print 20,000 extra copies of the document, after which the Senate adjourned.

In the House the Message was read and referred to the Committee of the Whole, and the House adjourned.

In the SENATE Tuesday, Mr. Wilson gave notice of a bill appropriating a million of acres of lands to schools in the district of Columbia, and Mr. Gwin tried to bring up the Pacific Railroad bill.

In the HOUSE, Mr. Ritchie moved to lay the resolution looking to the abrogation of the Clayton Bulwer Treaty upon the table, which was refused. The resolution was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

The House adjourned to Thursday, to give the Speaker time to arrange the Standing Committees.

SEWING MACHINES IN EUROPE.—At the recent meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Social Science, held at Liverpool, England, Dr. Strang, statician of the city of Glasgow, read a paper on the above subject, in which he described several kinds of these useful machines, and stated that they were nine hundred of them now in operation in the city to which he belonged. He passed a high encomium on their usefulness, and the benefits which had accrued from their introduction. They had been the means of increasing the production of sewed work, and while they had done this, the most unprofitable kinds of hand-needlework only has been displaced, and they had tended to increase rather than diminish the wages of those engaged in this sphere of labor. These machines, in the city of Glasgow, afforded proof of benefits conferred upon those whose hand labor they had superseded, because the girls who attended them are able to earn twice the amount of wages they had previously been able to make by hand-sewing.

FROM EUROPE.—The news is four days later. Lord Napier is recalled from his mission in this country. A London paper, opposed to the government, attributes this to the fact that he favors the Monroe doctrine, but the Globe says he will have another mission, and that the government is perfectly satisfied with his course. There is a rumor that American agents are persuading Denmark to sell to this country the islands of St. Thomas and St. Jan in the West Indies.

CADETS.—There are now five hundred applicants for the ten cadetships at West Point, which the President has the discretion to appoint.—These appointments are usually made from among the children of officers who have died in the service and been distinguished by peculiar gallantry.

MR. SHUMAN, of Providence, discovered a lot of property which has been stolen from him, in the hands of an auctioneer at Rochester where it had been left for sale, by one Pareira. Some of the stolen property had been removed, before Mr. Shuman's arrival in Rochester, and Pareira himself had disappeared.

NEWSPAPERS.—Some compiler of statistics estimates there are 2000 newspapers published in the United States, 550 in Great Britian and Ireland, 56 in Russia and Poland, 30 in Asia, 26 in Portugal, 24 in Spain, 10 in Australia.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR,

Prepared by Dr. SANFORD,

Compounded entirely from GUMS.

IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE AND LIVER MEDICINES now before the public, that acts as a cathartic, easier, milder and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is not only a cathartic, but a liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach is at fault, the bowels are at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of one organ—the Liver— having ceased to do its duty. For the diseases of that organ, one of the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with LIVER COMPLAINT in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well, PURIFYING THE BLOOD, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease— effecting a radical cure.

BILLIOUS ATTACKS are cured and, WHAT IS BETTER, PREVENTED, by the occasional use of the LIVER INVIGORATOR.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach and prevent the food from rising and souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents NIGHTMARE.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures COSTIVENESS.

One dose taken after each meal will cure DYSPEPSIA.

One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve SICK HEADACHE.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.

Only one dose immediately relieves CHOLIC, while

One dose often repeated is a sure cure for CHOLERA MORBUS, and a preventive of CHOLERA.

Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

One bottle taken for JAUNDICE removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite and makes food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures CHRONIC DIARRHOEA in its worst forms, while SUMMER and BOWEL complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by WORMS in Children; there is no surer, safer or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails.

A few bottles cures DROPSY by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for FEVER AND AGUE, CHILL FEVER, and all FEVERS of a BILIOUS TYPE. It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

ALL WHO USE IT ARE GIVING THEIR UNANIMOUS TESTIMONY IN ITS FAVOR.

Mix Water in the Mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR

IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common headache, all of which are the result of a diseased liver.

PURE Ohio Catawba Brandy.

THE UNDERSIGNED have been duly appointed by the Manufacturers in Cincinnati, Agents for the sale of L. LYON'S OHIO CATAWBA BRANDY.

As this article is manufactured from the PURE JUICE of the Catawba Grape, cultivated in the vineyards of the Great West, it has a special claim to notice.

The Proprietor guarantees this Brandy to be STRICTLY PURE and

Free from all Adulteration.

Which is corroborated by the analysis of Dr. James A Nichols, Chemist, Boston; Prof. C. T. Jackson, Dr. A. A. Hayes, Assayer, Mass.; Dr. Hiram Cox, Chemical Inspector, Ohio, and Dr. James R. Chilton, Chemist, New York, as exhibited below:—

From James R. Chilton, Chemist, New York City.

DEAR SIR:—I have received a bottle of Lyon's pure Ohio Catawba Brandy, for analyzation, and I find it to contain only those ingredients which exist in PURE BRANDY. The proportion of alcohol obtained from it is 47 per cent. I believe this sample to be pure brandy, without adulteration.—The flavor of it is delicate and peculiar.

JAMES R. CHILTON, M. D. Chemist.

New York, 28th July, 1857.

No. 93 Prince street, cor of Mercer.

THE CATAWBA BRANDY possesses all the choice qualities of the BEST IMPORTED LIQUOR, and is positively known to be of PERFECT PURITY, and of superior flavor.

We would respectfully call attention to this Fine Brandy, confident that the sanction of the above well known chemists amply guarantees its real merits.

For medical purposes Lyon's Catawba Brandy has no rival. Retail price, $1,12 per bottle, or $12,00 per dozen.

COAL & WOOD.

McGregor Stoves and Furnaces.

THE SUBSCRIBERS offer to their customers and the public generally, the following varied assortment of white ash coals, viz:

Lehigh, Hazleton, Mammoth Vein, Locust Mountain, Lackawana, Pittston, Scranton.

On account of their freedom from refuse and clinker, the white ash coals have proved by far the most desirable for the steady fires of McGregor stoves and furnaces.

OMAN & BRADFORD,

Oct 2 opposite the Custom House.

Coal and Kindling Wood.

THE subscriber is now prepared to furnish his customers with FIRST QUALITY prepared coal from the following celebrated mines, viz:

Red Ash.

Black Dimond Vein, stove and egg.

Old Peack Mountain, stove and egg.

F. J. Parvin's, stove and egg.

White Ash.

Ashland, stove, egg and lump,

Old Company Lackawana, range and grate,

ALSO,

The justly celebrated Trevorton coal, and a small lot of the "GENUINE" Lykens Valley coal.

Kindling Wood prepared by machinery from the best quality Southern Pine, also Maple and Oak Kindlings, Walnut, Maple Oak, Pine and Chestnut Wood, by the cord, or prepared in any manner desired. W. J. SWINBURNE,

June 12 wharf opposite foot Mary street.

LORBERY COAL,—SOMETHING NEW.

THE attention of those preferring free burning coals is solicited to the abovenamed coal.—This possesses a different degree of inflamability from any yet offered in this market; it being not quite so inflamable as the Franklin and Trevorton coals, and yet much more so than the ordinary Red and White Ash coals. It burns with great blaze, and is almost entirely consumed, being quite free from slate and other impurities.

It can be seen burning at my office.

Ladies' Delight. RELIEF COME AT LAST.

J. WISNER'S WASHING MACHINE, Patented Sept. 26th, 1854, is a large tub with zinc fitted on the bottom, also on the under side of the rubber. It stands on a stool, and weighs about 25 pounds; is simple and handy, and has been thoroughly examined and tried by thousands at the West within the past year, who pronounce it to be the best labor-saving machine ever offered to the public. It has been tested sufficiently long to prove that wherever it has been used properly, it will tell a better story for itself than I can communicate. Give it a trial and you will be entirely satisfied of its superior merits.

IMPORTANT TO CONSUMPTIVES!

DR. CHURCHILL'S DISCOVERY,

The Hypophosphites of Lime, Soda AND POTASH,

A SPECIFIC REMEDY FOR THE TREATMENT OF CONSUMPTION.

This new and important discovery in the treatment of TUBERCULOSIS, (Consumption) was made by the celebrated Dr. John Francis Churchill of Paris, and first communicated to the French Academy of Medicine in 1856. It has been adopted and is now used throughout the Continent of Europe with unprecedented success as a cure and preventive of this most formidable scourge of the human race. The Hypophosphites are recommended by the most eminent Physicians of New York, who prescribe it for their patients.

So long ago as 1855, Dr. Churchill, by a series of scientific deductions came to the conclusion, that the proximate cause, or at all events, an essential condition of Tuberculosis, Consumption, was a decrease in the system of the phosphorus it contains in a oxygenizable state. Hence he drew the obvious inference, that the means of curing the disease consisted in RESTORING the deficient elements.

For this purpose it was necessary to select some compound of phosphorus which should be at the same time oxydizable and assimilable—that is, capable of entering into and forming a part of the system. These conditions were found to exist in the hypophosphites of Lime, Soda and Potash, which seemed best to fulfil the two requisites of OXYDATION, or combustion, and ASSIMILATION. The use of Hypophosphites shows these preparations to have a two fold specific action. On the one hand they increase the principle, whatever they may be, which constitutes nervous force; and on the other, they are the most powerful BLOOD GENERATING agents, far superior to any hitherto known.

The Physiological effects of their use are shown by an INCREASE of nervous power, sometimes even from the first day of their administration, together with an unusual feeling of comfort and strength. The APPETITE INCREASES often in an extraordinary manner. The evacuations become more regular and more abundant; the prespirations, if any have existed, cease; sleep becomes calm and profound. All the general symptoms disappear with a rapidity that is truly marvelous.

☞ The HYPOPHOSPHITES, as prescribed by Dr. Churchill, are now for the first time offered in a chemically pure form in the United States by the undersigned.

Price $2 per bottle, in a CONCENTRATED FORM, by mail.—Three bottles will be sent for $5 when ordered by Express.—It is also put up in large bottles ready for use, when ordered by Express or private hand. Ample directions accompany each package. Circulars and all desired information may be obtained by addressing (with a stamp enclosed)

FURNITURE.

THE SUBSCRIBERS have just received a general assortment of Furniture, consisting of Mahogany, Sofas, Tete-a-Tetes, Lounges, Gondola Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Mahogany and Black Walnut spring seat Setting Chairs—a new style, Ottomans, Rosewood, Mahogany and Black Walnut Side and Centre-Tables, (marble tops) Black Walnut and Mahogany Bedsteads, Bureaus and Wash Stands, Mahogany and Black Walnut Hat Trees, &c., &c.

—ALSO—

A complete assortment of common and low priced Furniture, Hair, Husk, and Straw Mattrasses.

Patent Metallic Burial Caskets.

THE SUBSCRIBERS would call the attention of the public to a new and beautiful Metallic Burial Case of form and shape to accord with the feelings of the bereaved, and furnished in imitation of polished Rosewood. These cases being made air tight, contagion is prevented, and the process of decomposition arrested for a long time. This is of great advantage when it is desirable to preserve the remains of a deceased friend for a considerable time, or transport the same to a distant place for sepulchre or where it is necessary to entomb, for a few months before the final burial. They can be seen at our Furniture Rooms, No. 10 Franklin street. Also Coffins of Rosewood, Mahogany, Black Walnut, White Wood and Pine, with Robes and Plates of every description always on hand. Everything connected with the management of funerals promptly attended to.

SEWING MACHINES.

Price from $12 00 to $26 00.

S. F. PRATT'S PATENT.

These Sewing Machines are giving universal satisfaction wherever they have been introduced.—Being extremely simple and easy to manage, are not liable to get out of order. They do not occupy more than half the space of other Sewing Machines, and will execute as much work, and in a much better manner, in the same space of time as twenty persons can by hand, sewing 1000 stitches per minute. When this machine is stopped working it fastens the thread, thereby preventing the work from ravelling.
